Bcenter.com launches Global Stroke Provider Map

Medical and professional stroke services showcased in centralized network

ORLANDO, Fla. (March 21, 2012) – Bcenter.com, an online global stroke resource center, announced the launch of a medical and professional provider map designed to connect survivors with stroke specialists. The interactive diagram showcases facilities and organizations allowing users to easily explore various natural and conventional therapies throughout the world. According to the World Health Organization, 15 million people suffer stroke worldwide each year; of these, 5 million die and another 5 million are permanently disabled.

“Bcenter.com’s provider map is like a GPS for stroke survivors on a journey to finding recovery options,” said Valerie Greene, CEO and Founder of Bcenter.com, a survivor of two strokes. “Stroke survivors around the world are crossing boundaries to find the best care and the medical community can now proactively get on the radar of potential patients to direct them to care.”

Stroke-related providers can now join top companies and associations already impacting Bcenter.com users including Oxygen Care Centers of America, National Stroke Association and Holistic Options. Bcenter.com stands out from other stroke websites because it pairs cutting-edge medical options with direction and perspective of an individual who has personally benefitted from an array of therapies, including nearly twenty preferred treatments such as stem cell therapy, Energy Medicine and Hyperbaric Oxygen.

Users can easily navigate through the Bcenter.com’s all-inclusive online recovery center through three main functions: the interactive world provider map lives under the Bconnected website section, allowing stroke survivors and patients to identify providers/experts; Bwell offers insight into diverse conventional and holistic treatments option; and Bempowered presents motivational resources including survivor testimonials, educational videos and uplifting books.

Bcenter.com is headquartered in Orlando, FL under the direction of CEO & Founder Valerie Greene who stunned the medical community after refining her abilities following two debilitating strokes. Her efforts surrounding stroke awareness, advocacy and business advancements have been internationally recognized.
